Introduction

Introduction I

Research logs rot because outcomes live in notebooks while plans live in issue trackers. We propose the opposite coupling: a single experiment tree where nodes are preregistered (frozen) before being run, and the manuscript is a deterministic projection of that tree. The tree carries a run_command contract per node, so every recorded experiment names the canonical command that produced its evidence.